

Decorative panel containing graphic representations of the illuminated religious symbols and commemorative or holiday signs

Abstract

A new display comprised of a panel containing graphic representations of the illuminated religious symbols and commemorative or holiday signs. The panel may be affixed to any curvatures including windows, car windshields or any other surface, serving as the outer boundary of the objects. The visual representation of the aforementioned symbols is illuminated by light-emitting chemical processes or physical devices. The panel can have any size and thickness that would fit individual applications. Specific embodiments are provided for plurality of the decorative purposes.